PITHY PARAGRAPHS.

It is said that down public institutions will be compelled by law to use coal mined in town.

Illinois mines had a poor year in 1895, financially, but the tonnage was immense.

Supervisors at Milwaukee, Wis., are kicking at the excessive coal consumption at the county institutions.

A bill has been introduced in the Ohio legislature for the taxation of all coal mined for commercial purposes.

The citizens of Fort Branch, Ind., have decided to pay a premium of $5,000 to any one who will shaft a shaft for coal mining, a fine sum of coal having been found.

At Kansas City, Mo., all the dealers are compelled to pay license. A recent effort on the part of one to evade it failed to do so only resulted in being levied against him.

A dealer at Sacramento, Cal., tried to collect a bill of $100,000 but was assaulted by the individual who owned the bill. The latter was arrested and fined, but this did not pay the bill.

The following advertisement appears in the Highland, N. Y. Post—

I DON'T KEEP IT.
I WON'T KEEP IT.
I CAN'T KEEP IT.
GOOD COAL.

The plant of the Mary Coal Co., at Denton, Ky., has practically abandoned operations, the thickness and quality of the coal proving such as to render probably working an extremely difficult undertaking.

Capt. W. C. Braden of Hindenburg Canal co. by boat down the Kentucky River from Paducah, though it is proving a dangerous experiment. A boat containing 5,000 bushels of a smoky and smoky coal shortly after leaving Beattyville for Clays Ferry.

Our city marshal on Sunday communicated some interesting news to the "Weary Willy's" sojourning in convenient suburban homes. The news conveyed was to the effect that unless they found a more distant abiding place they would be given that which most makes them weary.

In the event of his appointment to the place made vacant by the death of Judge Grace, the question has been raised who will take his place. This question is the most vexing one in the city, as it is within easy reach. Wm. Neely, of this place, is a man of 30 years' practice, the last year or so, in which he has been dealer in the law. He is a Christian and a true gentleman, and is highly esteemed in every respect. He has quit the tobacco business and has resumed the law practice with which he is in every way familiar. In the absence of the circuit court, which will be held in this place, he has been known to fill the same with honor and dignity. His recent impromptu speech in court defusing a point held by the other side was a masterpiece, and is worthy of any office within the gift of the people.

The change of the culvert near the Baptist church is quite an improvement to the adjoining property. The water that before coursed through lots occupied by tenement houses is now to be turned into an alleyway.

MY BIGS ARE THE BEST IN THE CITY.

BESSIE NOLAND,
The Little Daughter of John and Alice
Noland, Who Died at the Home,
Saturday, Feb. 1, 1895.

No one sees the little darling
That once made a home so gay;
Singing sweetly in her play;
Jesus called them his lambs.
When he saw a lamb from his nest,
He sang softly whisper,
Little Jesus is gone to rest.

No one sees the little girls
That stood passing through the aisle,
No one hears this sweet voice calling,
Calling for a dear playmate
To come and play with her,
But remember God knows best,
At another hour he's calling
Little Jesus is gone to rest.

No one sees the little boys
Of her fair feet on the floor,
When he saw a lamb from his nest,
When he saw a lamb from his nest,
He sang softly whisper,
Little Jesus is gone to rest.

No one sees the little girls
That stood passing through the aisle,
No one hears this sweet voice calling,
Calling for a dear playmate
To come and play with her,
But remember God knows best,
At another hour he's calling
Little Jesus is gone to rest.

Little Jesus is gone to rest.

No one sees the little girls
That stood passing through the aisle,
No one hears this sweet voice calling,
Calling for a dear playmate
To come and play with her,
But remember God knows best,
At another hour he's calling
Little Jesus is gone to rest.

No one sees the little boys
Of her fair feet on the floor,
When he saw a lamb from his nest,
When he saw a lamb from his nest,
He sang softly whisper,
Little Jesus is gone to rest.

No one sees the little girls
